Instructor quote

Mr. Edouard Jabre

Marist works coordinator in Lebanon and Syria

After being a student at Fsedu, it is now with immense satisfaction that I teach there. Sharing my knowledge and experience with students, supporting them in their academic and professional development, and exchanging with passionate colleagues and administrators make this experience one of the most enriching human and intellectual journeys. The Faculty's supportive and stimulating environment fosters high-quality learning, where dialogue and pedagogical innovation take center stage. I am grateful to be part of an institution that upholds the values of humanism and excellence, as well as collaboration and mutual support between teachers, students, and the administration.

Alumni Testimonial

Prof. Hyam Ishak

President of the Center for Educational Research and Development (CRDP)

The training of competent educational leaders is at the core of Fsedu's mission. This challenge remains a key driver for fostering the societal, economic, and political development of the country. Aware that education is a strategic and national priority, Fsedu combines its efforts with both the public and private sectors to address the evolving needs of educational systems and enhance their potential for sustainable transformation.
