

Leadership in the AI Era

 Date: February 25-26, 2025

 Time: 9:00 am till 1h30 pm (Beirut Time)

 Location: CFP training room (Michel Ghazal), Campus of Innovation and Sports, (CIS-USJ), Beirut

 Modality: in person

 Language: English

Learning outcomes:

- Foster interpersonal skills for leadership success
- Build high-performing teams and promote collaboration
- Navigate change and manage conflicts effectively
- Strengthening ethical leadership and integrity in decision-making
- Understand the fundamentals of AI and its implications for leadership
- Integrate AI-driven insights into strategic decision-making
- Develop skills to lead AI driven projects and teams
- Analyze real world examples of AI in Leadership

 Register here

Dr. Ghada HADDAD is an associate professor of Leadership and Organizational Behavior at Eklore School of Management, in France. She holds a PHD in Educational Leadership. She is an experienced professor in leadership, intercultural leadership, leading change, international organizational behavior. Her research interests extend to interculturality in leadership, purpose-driven, social sustainability, empowering leadership and diversity, equity and inclusion (DEI). She has taught in international business schools in France, Lebanon and Africa. She communicates in multicultural contexts. Dr. Ghada Haddad is an expert at the Professional Training Center of Saint Joseph University.

Mr. Soulayman Al-Abdallah is an AI Instructor at ZAKA, specializing in the development and delivery of educational content on artificial intelligence. His work spans a broad range of data-driven technologies and methodologies, catering to diverse levels of technical expertise and addressing various sectors, including business leadership, legal frameworks, education and healthcare innovation. With extensive experience in mentoring and instructing, Soulayman has contributed to numerous AI capacity-building initiatives across the MENA region, empowering individuals, private and governmental organizations to effectively integrate AI into their operations. Soulayman is an expert at the Professional Training Center of Saint Joseph University.