Cardiff School of Health Sciences

The Cardiff Met International Summer School is an exciting opportunity for you to study in a vibrant European capital city, with an opportunity for you to embrace British culture and to connect with students from around the world.

Cardiff Met is based over two campuses and five Academic Schools. The International Summer School features a variety of pathways from each of the five Schools.

Improving Public Health

Public health is a global issue that is affected by a range of factors that can be positively influenced by a range of professions. This module will introduce public health in a general sense before drawing on the experience of a range of programmes from across the School of Health Sciences to demonstrate the contribution that different specialities can have. This will include the role of diet, housing and the environment, exercise, and the overarching importance of promoting behavioural change.

*Please note the above sessions are aimed at all Undergraduate and Postgraduate level of study.

Cardiff School of Management

Leading Edge Insights into Business, Leadership and Management

Cardiff School of Management's sessions will give you insights into areas of knowledge critical to success as a leader and a manager. You will be introduced to areas such as finance, the digital economy, strategic marketing, project management, supply chain and logistics, production engineering management as well as have an opportunity to explore your own leadership preferences and strengths.

You will develop your capacity to see 'the big picture' - future leaders of high performing organisations must be able to place their roles within the context of the change occurring in the external environment - as well as appreciate the need for detailed planning. A clear objective of these sessions is to equip participants with the ability to manage and lead within an environment that is constantly changing and in which the only certainty is uncertainty.

*Please note the above sessions are aimed at Third Year Undergraduate students and those already studying at Master level.

Cardiff School of Art and Design

Architectural technology and construction in the UK

Get a first-hand overview of the role of an architectural technologist. You will learn about delivering the technical designs and architectural detailing of a range of contemporary building types in the UK. The programme will involve a mix of presentations on the theoretical aspects of modern construction practice in the UK, workshops on architectural detailing, building performance and environmental analysis and visits to construction sites to experience first-hand different building methods.

Summer of Making... Design, make, craft, innovate, experiment, break, remake

Spend time with us exploring a range of materials, skills and technologies. The summer programme is ideal for those interested in learning new making, technology and craft skills, from beginner through to advanced practitioner level. Whether you have a keen interest in craft and design, want to develop your skills for your business or because you are thinking about Further Education/Higher Education, this programme allows you the hands-on practical opportunities to develop work and ideas that meets these needs. We look forward to meeting you, and taking you on a creative, exploratory journey where you will enjoy first class tutoring, engaging with traditional, and new technologies, including our FabLab, where you'll be sure to make new friends.

Textiles: Tactile Senses

Indulge your senses with colour, texture and pattern, and explore the tactile world of textiles for body or space - from fashion to wallpapers, from furnishing to gift wrap. Experiment with digital and traditional techniques and shape your textile future. A series of interactive, hands-on, workshops to give a taster and inspire creativity.

*Please note the above sessions are aimed at all Undergraduate and Postgraduate level of study.
